QUESTION 2

Nusantara Manufacturing Bhd is planning to expand its operations next year and is currently evaluating three possible business strategies, namely Strategy X, Strategy Y, and Strategy Z. Due to uncertainty in market conditions, the management team decides not to rely on a single forecast. Instead, they consult three independent industry experts who have different levels of experience and credibility.

Based on the company's past evaluation, management assigns a confidence level to each expert according to their forecasting accuracy. Expert A is considered the most reliable with a confidence level of 45%, followed by Expert B with 30%, and Expert C with 25%.

Each expert provides an estimate of the expected annual return for the three strategies. Expert A predicts returns of 21%, 15%, and 26% for Strategy X, Y, and Z respectively. Expert B estimates that Strategy X will generate 18%, Strategy Y 13%, and Strategy Z 20%. Meanwhile, Expert C forecasts return of 24% for Strategy X, 19% for Strategy Y, and 30% for Strategy Z.

The management intends to use the confidence levels as weights in evaluating the expected performance and risk of each strategy before making a final decision.

Required:

- a. Calculate the expected annual return for Strategy X, Strategy Y, and Strategy Z using the weighted forecasts. (6 marks)
- b. Determine the standard deviation of returns for each strategy as a measure of investment risk. (9 marks)
- c. Determine the coefficient of variation for each strategy. (3 marks)
- d. If you are risk taker, which strategy would you choose. Justify your answer. (2 marks)

QUESTION 4

VX Bhd is a smart energy solutions company that develops digital monitoring and automation systems for industrial and commercial buildings throughout Malaysia. In line with its expansion strategy, the company is planning to introduce a new automated energy management platform that will require substantial long-term financing.

To fund the project, VX Bhd plans to maintain a capital structure made up of 30% long-term debt, 15% preference shares, 35% ordinary shares, and 20% retained earnings.

The company's long-term debt consists of 6% debentures with a 10-year maturity and a par value of RM1,000. These debentures are currently trading at RM950, and the company expects to incur flotation costs of RM25 per bond issued.

In addition, VX Bhd has preference shares that pay a 9% cumulative dividend based on a par value of RM100. These shares are currently selling at RM108 in the market and issuing them would involve flotation costs equal to 5% of the market price.

The company's ordinary shares are trading at RM42 per share. Next year dividend is RM2.80, and it's expected to grow at a constant rate of 6% per year. If new ordinary shares are issued, flotation costs will amount to 7% of the current market price.

VX Bhd also has RM3 million in retained earnings available to support the investment. The company is subject to a corporate tax rate of 25%.

Required:

- a. Assess the cost of capital for:
 - i. Debt after tax. (9 marks)
 - ii. Preference shares. (2 marks)
 - iii. Internal equity. (4 marks)
 - iv. External equity. (4 marks)
- b. Evaluate the maximum capital expenditure the company can undertake without issuing new stock. (1 marks)
- c. Measure the company's Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC) if external equity is used for financing. (5 marks)
